Spring 2010

What's Happening in Del Norte County

Great news for fishing enthusiasts! Effective March 1, 2010, the statewide bag and possession limits have been raised to two fish per day and four fish in possession on most California rivers, including the Smith River! Klamath River limits are still at one fish per day and one in possession.

Del Norte County: A Pooch's Paradise

Do you love hiking, but can't imagine trekking the hills without Fido trotting happily by your side? Love camping, but can't bear the thought of a night under the stars without Rex to keep you warm? Pack a leash and some Milk Bones and head to Del Norte County for a vacation that is sure to get tails wagging. In Del Norte County, you can explore the wondrous redwood forests and rocky beaches with your furry best friend by your side. When you're ready to hit the hay (or the dog bed) for the night, many hotels, motels and campgrounds in Del Norte County will welcome you and your pooch with a smile and a scratch behind the ears. Take in the Back Country from the Back of a Horse

Saddle up for a chance to discover the pristine backcountry of Del Norte County, a truly natural environment inaccessible by cars and the less hardy hikers. Watch the reflection of the clouds race over shimmering high-elevation lakes; take in sweeping panoramic vistas stretching to the horizon; meander through lush mountain meadows bursting with joyous spring blossoms. As you sit up high and ride through California's tallest redwoods, you'll know the true meaning of getting back to nature. Read more...

April Showers Bring Much More Than Flowers

Spring showers trigger frenzy of change to the landscape of Del Norte County, from rivers swelling wildly to flowers erupting in a sudden display of wondrous color. Whether you watch a storm wreak havoc on the coastline, wander the beach after it passes, ride the rapids it creates or admire the wildflowers it summons, there are many ways to enjoy a Del Norte County downpour. Here are some of our favorite things that April showers bring to Del Norte County. Read more...

We look forward to seeing you in Del Norte County this spring!

Thanks for your interest in Northern California! We hope to see you where the Redwoods Meet the Sea soon!
